CONSULAR NOTIFICATION.

BRITISH CONSULATE,
SHANGHAI, 2*nd January*, 1861.

The undersigned, H. B. M.'s Consul, hereby gives notice that he is prepared to issue passports, under the ninth article of the British Treaty of Tien-tsin, to such British subjects as meet the conditions stated in the subjoined circular instructions of H. M.'s Envoy and Chief Superintendent of Trade, and implied by the form of passport forwarded with those instructions, of which form a copy is also subjoined.

It will be perceived that H. M.'s Consul, in signing a passport, vouches for the known respectability of the person to whom it is issued; and that he cannot issue one to a person whose character, position and antecedents do not afford reasonable guarantees for his good conduct.

THOS. TAYLOR MEADOWS,
H. B. M.'s Consul.

Passport No.

BRITISH CONSULATE,
SHANGHAE, 186

The undersigned, Her Britannic Majesty's Consul at Shanghae, requests the Civil and Military Authorities of the Emperor of China in conformity with the ninth article of the Treaty of Tien-tsin to allow A. B., a British subject to travel freely and without hindrance or molestation in the Chinese empire and to give him protection and aid in case of necessity.

Mr. A. B. being a person of known respectability is desirous of proceeding to (Sze chuen and Kan suh) and this passport is given him on conditions of his not visiting the cities or towns occupied by the Insurgents.

H. B. M.'s Consul.

This passport will remain in force for a year from the date thereof.

Signature of the bearer: (A. B.)

Extract from a (Circular) Despatch dated 21st November, 1860, from H. M. Envoy and Chief Superintendent of Trade to Consul MEADOWS.

I have to impress particularly on you the necessity of not issuing passports to any British subjects who are not persons whose character, position, and antecedents afford reasonable guarantees for their good conduct.

It is of the utmost importance to the security of foreigners in the interior that this instruction should be strictly attended to. If the bearer of the passport is guilty of any offence against the laws of the country, and is arrested, and sent to your port by the Chinese authorities, you will institute the strictest investigation into the complaint, and punish him accordingly and no passport should be issued to him in future.

True Extract,

J. A. WEBSTER.

UNITED STATES CONSULATE,
SHANGHAI, CHINA, January 4th, 1861.

To all whom it may concern.

The following despatch has been received at this Consulate from the United States Legation in China, and is published for the information of all whom it may concern.

By direction of Flag Officer, C. K. Stribling, Chargé d'Affaires ad interim, I have to notify all whom it may concern that the Tariff published by Lord Elgin referred to in said despatch, is the same as agreed to at Shanghai, November 8th, 1858, by Mr. Reed then U. S. Minister, and has been ratified by the President and Senate, and goes into effect at once, and is now equally binding upon the United States and China, their citizens and subjects.

W. L. G. SMITH,
U. S. Consul.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,
U. S. Flag Ship Hartford,
HONGKONG, December 25th, 1860.

SIR.—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 15th instant.

By a reference to the Archives of the Legation, I find that the three Treaty powers (Great Britain, France and the United States,) all agreed to the Tariff of duties, to be levied upon Exports from, and Imports into China, as specified in the Treaty and Convention, proclaimed by Lord Elgin, under date of November 20th, 1860.

The operation of the Tariff was suspended by Mr. Ward during the pendency of the difficulties between the Allied powers, (France and Great Britain) and China, except the reduction of tonnage dues. These difficulties having been adjusted, and peace restored; the Citizens of the United States are entitled to all the benefits of the Treaty of 1858; the Tariff being a part of that Treaty, it of course goes into effect at once, the cause of its suspension by Mr. Ward no longer existing.

By the 30th Article of the Treaty signed at Tientsin on the 18th of June 1858, any right privilege, or favor, conferred by any subsequent treaty upon any other Nation at once enure to the benefit of the United States, its public Officers, Merchants and Citizens. If therefore, the recent Convention and Treaty, proclaimed by Lord Elgin, confers any right, privilege, or favor upon the subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, not conferred by the treaty of Tientsin above referred to, they at once enure to the Citizens of the United States, as if conferred by said Treaty.

The Tariff agreed upon by Lord Elgin and the Chinese Commissioners at Shanghai, November 8th 1858, was adopted and agreed to by Mr. Reed the United States Minister then in China, and appended to his Treaty, and ratified by the President and Senate.

Whatever publicity is necessary you will please to give to the Tariff, as a part of the Treaty between the United States and China.

I have not a copy of the Tariff to send you, but as it is the same as that proclaimed by Lord Elgin, you may consider it as a true copy, so far as the interests of the Citizens of the United States are concerned.

Merchants and Citizens of the United States residing in China, are doubtlessly aware of the Proclamation of Lord Elgin, announcing the re-establishment of peace; and have seen the Convention, Treaty and Tariff as published by him. It is not therefore, perhaps, necessary, to do more than to notify them, that, that Tariff is the same as agreed to by Mr. Reed and equally binding upon the United States and China, their Citizens and subjects.—I am, respectfully your obedient servant,

(Signed). C. K. STRIBLING,
Flag Officer Chargé d' Affaires ad interim.

THE next Inward mail from London 26th Nov., will be due in Hongkong on the 10th, and should be here on the 19th inst., by the P. & O. Steamer.

THE P. & O. Steamer Aden carrying the outward mail for Europe will leave at day-light tomorrow.

ON Thursday last the Earl of Elgin, Her Majesty's Special Envoy to China, left for Hongkong and England via Manila and Batavia in H. M. I. N. Steamer Feroze. Much disappointment is felt that His Lordship, after having announced, semi-officially, his intention to open up the river Yang-tsze to foreign trade should have remained here a month and then departed without taking any initiative steps, so far as is known to us, to bring this most important article of his treaty of Tien-tsin into operation, or intimating his views on the subject, unless they may have been given in a letter he addressed to the British Chamber of Commerce, the tenor of which we believe has not transpired beyond the walls of the Committee-room. The eclât of bringing this desirable measure into practical working is now left to Admiral Sir James Hope and we do not doubt that it may be successfully accomplished by a prompt and decisive policy. That difficulties present themselves in this embarrassing question we are aware but that they are not insurmountable, those who have China experience all know. The thing has to be done or the Treaty of Tien-tsin, which has already been a dead letter for two years and a-half, will be worth little more than the paper it is written on, notwithstanding it has cost some ten or twelve millions of pounds sterling. It should therefore be done quickly.

Meanwhile Her Majesty's Consul at this port has given notice that he is ready to grant passports under Article IX of the Treaty, the form of which is given above in a Consular notification. And the mandarins are issuing permits for the transport of goods into the interior, at a duty of 2½ per cent as provided for by Rule 2 appended to the Tariff.

ARRIVAL OF THE MAIL.

THE private str. Ly-ee-moon brought us the mail of 10th Nov., on Wednesday last, the 2nd inst. The P. & O. Company's packet came in on the 3rd with the heavy portion. The dates by these opportunities are, Bombay 1st, Galle 7th, Singapore 17th, and Hongkong 20th Dec. The mail arrived in Hongkong by the Emeu on the 26th ultimo.

The Overland Summaries, give the following among the heads of the news of the fortnight

A battle took place between the Sardinians and the Neapolitans, between Teano and Sessa, the Neapolitans retreated across the Garigliano, which has since been crossed by Victor Emmanuel in person, and the Neapolitans were again defeated by the Sardinians on the Garigliano, and Gaeta was closely invested on the land side. King Victor Emmanuel entered Naples on the 7th November, and has accepted the sovereign authority of the Two Sicilies. Garibaldi has formally resigned the Dictatorship, and retired to his home at Caprera A body of 15,000 Neapolitan troops, cut off from Gaeta by the advance of the Sardinians, took refuge in the Roman States, and have been disarmed. It is said that the Papal army is to be dissolved, the Pope retaining only a guard of 3,000 men.

News of the capture of the Taku forts was received in London by telegram on the 1st and by mail on the 3d of November with great demonstrations of joy. Salutes of nineteen guns were fired at Plymouth from the citadel, and from the ships in commission in honor of the event.

Sir Hope Grant has been appointed a G. C. B., and Admiral Hope a K. C. B., General Montauban has been raised to the rank of Senator in France.

Capt. J. McCleverty, C. B., of H. M. S. Cambrian, on this station, has been appointed to receive the Captain's Good-service pension.

Admiral the Earl of Dundonald, G. C. B. died on the 31st Oct. and Admiral Sir Charles Napier on the 6th Nov. The Dowager Empress of Russia died on the 1st November.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

(Since our last Report.)

ARRIVED.—From Shanghai,—None reported.

DEPARTED.—For Shanghai, October 24th, Eloise from Cowes, November 5th, Pacific from London, 7th, Sir Ralph Abercrombie from do., 5th, Egeon from Liverpool, 7th, Granger from London viâ Cardiff.

LOADING.—For Shanghai—at London, Zibo, and Empress of India. At Liverpool, Allison, Clara Novello, and Sharpshooter.

PASSED ANZER.—From Shanghai, for London, Nov. 13th, Livingston, 10th, Kate Carnie, and Wynaud.

THE schooner Neva, bringing dates from the Peiho to the 23rd ulto. arrived in port on the 29th, in charge of the chief officer, the Captain with two of the crew having been lost on the evening of the 20th when pulling in the dingy from one of the ships in the anchorage to the schooner; the distance between the two vessels was 200 yards only. Nothing certain is known of how the accident occurred, but it is believed that the boat was either capsized soon after leaving the vessel's side, or that she was driven out to sea by the force of wind and waves, and lost in the fields of ice which were passing out from the River at the time. Immediately on the weather moderating the next morning, every search was made for the missing boat, but without success. The winter is reported to have set in with extreme severity, the thermometer stood at 22° in the shade at noon on the 20th December, and when the Neva left for Shanghai on the 23rd, all the vessels lying off the Forts, with the exception of the schooner Duck got under weigh, and proceeded to the South-west part of the Bay, where it is supposen most of them would winter.

By dates from Kanagawa to the 17th December, brought by the steamer England, we learn, that the trial of Mr. Moss in the British Consular Court for having shot a Japanese was still pending. The wounded man was in imminent danger, still refusing to allow the arm to be amputated. The Governor withheld his sanction to the operation being performed without permission from the man's father who was at Nagasaki, in the mean time there was no chance of his life being saved as mortification of the part had set in. A notification resulting from the event was issued by Mr. Consul Vyse; a copy of it, printed on board the steamer England, has been handed to us, a reprint of it is given below.

Copy of a Notification addressed to the British Community of Yokohama, by H. B. Majesty's Consul at Kanagawa.

BRITISH CONSULATE,
KANAGAWA, Dec. 6th, 1860.

No. 15. NOTIFICATION.

The late deplorable collision in which an officer of the Tycoon has been dangerously wounded and is likely to lose his life, renders it imperative on the undersigned H. B. M.'s Acting Consul to take measures to prevent the repetition of such untoward occurrences.

British subjects have already been informed by public Notification that the pursuit of game by fire-arms is prohibited by Japanese laws, within the limits of the port; but it now seems necessary to advise them, that residence in a foreign country carries with it by the common policy of nations the obligation to obey its laws;—this obligation holds good in Japan no less than in other countries, in all cases, where exemption has not been especially stipulated by Treaty in the form of special rights and privileges.

The right to disregard any Japanese laws—not especially suspended, is not a privilege conceded by the Treaty of Great Britain with Japan; certain Treaty rights exist by express stipulations, and all that legitimately follows as necessary to the full enjoyment of them is secured, but nothing beyond;—the manifest laws of Japan is in all other respects as binding upon Foreigners, as on Japanese.

It behoves British subjects to understand distinctly, therefore, that they are not only responsible for the infraction of Japanese laws, where these have not been suspended in their favour by Treaty stipulations, but, according to the law of Great Britain, for all the consequences that may ensue from the commission of an unlawful act.

So far does this law go, that if one intending to commit a felony, undesignedly kill a man, it is murder; if even where a person does an act lawful in itself, but in an unlawful manner, and without due caution and circumspection, and a life is lost, it must be either manslaughter or murder according to the circumstances.

A person therefore going out shooting, more especially after the warning given in Notification No. 15 of 1859 does deliberately violate a Japanese law, and acting at the same time in defiance of an understood prohibition emanating from the British Authority, whose jurisdiction he must acknowledge, commits a misdemeanor, and if he resist a Japanese officer, who in the performance of his duty seeks to arrest him for this or any other offence against Japanese laws, he is equally guilty of a serious and aggravated offence, becoming further responsible for any evil consequence that may attend his resistance; nor will it avail anyone to plead that he did not know the persons arresting him to be in the lawful execution of their office, as a ground of exemption from the penalty attaching to such offence.

The undersigned, therefore, calls upon British subjects within his jurisdiction, carefully to abstain from all wilful violations of the Japanese laws, and at the present moment more especially, reference is made to Shooting, and the Pursuit of game.

There are certain restrictions and prohibitions to this sport in most countries—in many, very stringent ones—in none can a Foreigner or anyone indeed shoot over another man's land, if he does not choose it or without his leave; the hardship of the case is therefore by no means so great, nor so singular as has been alleged, even had residents in Japan no more serious and legitimate objects to pursue; but were it ten times more so, while such is the law they must abide by it.

The Undersigned is further called upon to remark upon the common practice of carrying Fire-arms during the day and in the most ostentatious manner; there is no apparent danger to Justify this practice, while on the other hand it is itself a source of danger by provoking hostile feeling and distrust among the Natives, and placing within reach of many, whose non-command of temper under provocations or whose discretion under other circumstances cannot be trusted, such dangerous and deadly arms as revolvers.

There is something essentially provocative and irritating in such ostentatious display of Fire-arms by men supposed to be following the avocations of merchants, which are or ought to be altogether peaceable; nor is the danger one which affects only the person carrying the weapon, or anyone assailed, but it may at any moment involve a whole community in Peril.

Reproduced with permission of the copyright owner. Further reproduction prohibited without permission.

Considering these circumstances therefore, and regarding such carrying of Fire-arms between sunrise and sunset as a provocation in a breach of the peace, and a common source of danger to the community, British subjects are hereby prohibited from so offending, under penalties of fine and imprisonment.

It has further come to the knowledge of the Japanese Government, that furious riding in the streets of Yokohama and other crowded thoroughfares is a common practice among Foreigners, and not only with these, but their Chinese servants, by which the lives of Japanese subjects are daily endangered and one was only recently sacrificed.

The Undersigned is deeply concerned to find himself under the necessity of pointing out for reprobation acts prohibited and declared punishable by law in every civilized country; He can only trust that no British subject will ever be brought before him on such a charge, and that everyone will take earnest and effectual steps to prevent servants thus bringing their Foreign masters into odium and disrespect.

The very circumstance of these servants riding at all is a violation of the customs of the country, and one which no doubt outrages the feelings and the customs of the people.

The Undersigned can see no adequate Justification for this, and is certain it would be much better avoided in the interests of their Employers and those of the whole Community of Foreigners resident at this Port.

(Signed) F. HOWARD VYSE,
H. B. M's Acting Consul at Kanagawa.

GULF OF LIAU-TANG.

THE following sketch extracted from a letter received a short time back from the surveying ships in the Gulf of Liau-tong may be found interesting:—

The coast of the Eastern shore of the Gulf of Liau-tong is barren, the hills averaging between 300 and 800 feet high, and the country is apparently very thinly populated. The Dove visited a place which has obtained the name of Militia bay. The inhabitants here turned out armed with spears and garden implements—more, however, apparently, to protect their villages, which about here are numerous and small, than for any offensive purposes. The Slaney visited this place in July. The surveyors ascended the hill at daylight, immediately they landed gongs were heard at the nearest villages, and were repeated right round the bay, (about 7 miles round). The villagers quickly assembled to where the Slaney was lying, marching in order round the bay. Just before leaving, about 300 men had collected together, two or three were armed with very primitive matchlocks, others with spears, garden hoes and boat's tillers, and one with a horsewhip. The Slaney landed eight men to protect the theodolite and its users from being hurt or annoyed; some of the party walked round the village without molestation; of course they did not attempt to enter any houses; they were followed by two or three villagers at a short distance; their behaviour throughout was purely defensive, and of course remarkably patriotic.

The Dove, Commanded by Lieut. Bullock, proceeded along the coast, and suddenly fell from 2 fathoms water into an 8 fathoms channel, which terminated in a large harbour, to which has been assigned the name of Port Adams. It is about 8 miles deep and ¾ of a mile wide at the entrance, gradually decreasing to ½ a mile at 4 miles down. It would hold an immense number of ships. A small village exists at the end of the harbour, where sheep and fowls were obtained, and some very delicious grapes. No large town or city appears in sight, but the head of the harbour cannot be many miles from Talien-wan bay; hares and partridges were easily shot. Further North on the same coast is the harbour of Fauchau, a small well sheltered place capable of holding 10 ships of 14 feet draught. No town or large village can be seen from here, but it is evidently a small mandarin station; a fort exists mounting 3 guns, the best one of the lot is an old brass gun, with a Spanish inscription on it, and the date of 1647; 50 to 60 dollars were offered for it, but the Chinese would not part with it. A paper too was found in the fort with the English red ensign, then the French, American, and Russian ensigns painted, with writing at the side. No interpreter being with the squadron, its meaning was not discovered. They reluctantly parted with the paper.

The Actæon and Cruiser, during the same time were at and in the vicinity of the Great Wall. The mandarins here were most civil, one or two recognised Captain Bythesea and were very particular in their enquiries after Mr Adkins, the Interpreter, who was on board the Cruizer on his former visit, and on being told he had gone to Pekin, were quite satisfied and received the information, as a matter of course, evidently showing they knew how matters were progressing in that direction The Actæon returned to the Eastern coast, and that vessel and the Slaney proceeded for the Leao-ho. It is a large river with 17 feet at high water on the bar. Immediately inside the mouth of the river is a mud built town called Yinkoa, where a most extensive trade appears to be carried on. Junks in large numbers from all parts and ports of China were found here. The inhabitants in sampans crowded round the ship and, whilst lying there, it was impossible to keep the ship clear of them.

After passing Yinkoa, the river very much resembles the Woosung at Shanghai, and is full of shoals and middle grounds. At about 20 miles above Yinkoa, there are three forts, each mounting 5 or 6 guns. One of them was apparently new, and of a much better style and description than the others, though very far behind those at the Peiho forts. A large city with some junks off it lay beyond the forts, which was imagined to be the city of Newchwang. As the mission was surveying, and not fighting, they anchored about 1,000 yards below the forts, which were immediately manned and the guns trained for the Slaney. Two officers were sent up to communicate, the crowd of rabble flocking round them as they made their way to the gates of the fort. On their arrival there they found 10 men leaning against the gates to prevent their being forced. No mandarins condescended to show themselves. Finding that all attempts were useless, they returned to the Slaney, which soon afterwards weighed and proceeded down the river, mooring off the town of Yinkon.

Here they landed with a paper stating that they desired to buy sheep, fowls, eggs, &c.; they were conducted to one of the out-houses of a temple or pagoda, imagined to be a part of the Police Court. On making known their wants a very dirty man with long nails wrote them down. After some time they were told that the mandarins prohibited their being supplied, at least there was a doubt as to whether the officials did not wish our people to make their own purchases, unfortunately no Interpreter was to be had therefore at best our countrymen were reduced to a Vocabulary, an excessively indifferent mode of communication. The Officers amused themselves by walking in the city, buying furs, fruits, &c. after, the under official, already communicated with, came on board to arrange the purchase, and everything was settled amicably. Furs and skins, and all the necessaries of life appear abundant here. These communications as well as all others were carried on by writing. After writing on a piece of paper the article required, and the quantity, in Chinese, they affixed as many round nughts as they wanted dollars for the quantity. They were remarkably civil though evidently glad to see us away. The weather about this time, (20th Oct), changed very suddenly, the thermometer falling in one day 20°. The Slaney proceeded after leaving the Leao-ho to join the Cruiser and Dove on the Western shore.

The Northern side of the Gulf of Liau-tong is similar to the Gulf of Pecheli, low land and soft blue mud. The Western shore is high, higher than the Eastern.

The Great Wall which is about 30 feet high and 40 feet thick, commences at the water's edge in Latitude 39.58 N. Longitude 119.45 E. continues along the low land, and then rises to the very summit of the hills, which are rather abrupt. The land close to the water is low, and at the distance of about 1½ mile rises to the height of 1,000 or 1,200 feet. On the Plain the Wall is, in many places, so broken down that equestrians may without the inconvenience of alighting cross it.

The grandest view of this wall is the extraordinary way in which it climbs the steepest part of the mountains. At the distance of a mile apart are square towers, which render the wall very conspicuous, so much so that the eye can trace it for upwards of 30 miles, running up and down the summit of the hills, which rather increase in height than decrease. It is composed of bricks made of blue mud, about 16 inches long and 4 inches thick, rudely made, and some of them without a single mark of age. During the first stay of Cruiser and Actæon, their sportsmen found abundant, food for powder in the vicinity of the Wall, very great numbers of quail were seen and, of course, slaughtered. Here it was, an opportunity was afforded of witnessing "Y° noble sport of Falconrie" as pursued by our phlegmatic neighbours—the Falconer, an excessively unromantic looking Chinaman, attended by a celestial, looking, if possible, less romantic than he, carries on his wrist a merlin, to which is attached the end of a light string, wound round a revolving reel. The attendant sprite redolent of garlick, a necessary concomitant, we must presume, of the sport, slowly beats the long grass and bushes, one or two paces in advance of his superior. The instant the quarry is flushed, the hawk, released from his perch, but still having the line attached, strikes it to the ground and in his turn is immediately pounced upon by celestial No. 2, who makes prize of the quail, more frightened than hurt and places it in a large net work bag disposed around his person, our Falconer now reels the line up and the Hawk resumes his former position all ready for another flight.

One of these No. 2 men carried a net containing, as estimated, forty dozen quail all alive, and poking out their pretty little partridge shaped heads in all directions making him look like a Badger on two legs.

The inhabitants throughout the whole Gulf were very civil, and willing to trade, except at Militia bay, but evidently much afraid of the Tartars and mandarins.

On one occasion at Vansittart's Saddle some fishermen residing in huts at the waters edge, supplied a party with fowls and eggs; they were discovered by the Tartars, who took them away and burnt their huts.

At the same place two Naval officers walked about five miles inland, when they came across a mandarin station; they chin-chinned, and were proceeding on, when two or three soldiers caught each of them by the waist, carried them back about 100 yards, and then landed them and retired amidst the shouts and applause of their fellow soldiers. Of course the two officers had to pocket the affront. On another occasion not far from Militia Bay, a party tried to walk over to Talien-wan bay, but were stopped by the inhabitants throwing stones down from a cliff upon them, our people fired over their heads, they then ran, and, of course, the attempt to communicate was given up.

THE WEATHER.

DECEMBER.—Cold weather commenced earlier than usual this year but it has not continued for more than two or three days, at a time; the temperature having been very variable since the frost that we had towards the end of November. The year, however, closed with a very cold day and night, and a little sleet in the morning. There has been rain on 7 days, and several heavy gales of wind of short duration. The Thermometer ranged between 35 and 61 in the day, the mean being 51; and 27 and 52 at night, the mean, 41. Ice on three nights.

WE forget whom it was, upon being cast upon a barren and inhospitable shore, where nothing but a gibbet presented itself to view, who comforted himself with the remark that, at all events, there were some indications of civilization in the unknown land. We do not believe in the efficacy of capital punishments—a subject which we have neither the leisure nor inclination to pursue at present, but we are ever ready to support to our utmost any thing that would seem to tend to the general developement—to the civilization, in fact, of "the land we live in."

With this feeling, we publish with pleasure a letter, with which we have been favored by Mr. Pickwood, from Mr. Alex. Kennedy Smith, a Civil Engineer in Melbourne, on the practicability of introducing gas into this Settlement. We feel assured that this letter will be perused with interest by our readers, as it seems to us to bear, primâ facie, the impress of a Master-hand. We have not space to publish the documents that accompanied it, which consist of balance sheets of Gas Companies in Victoria and testimonials in Mr. Smith's favor from persons of established reputation in various Railway and Gas Companies both in England and Australia. The best guarantee to our minds for the faithful performance and successful issue of such an undertaking, is to be found in the fact that Mr. Smith has for Six Years retained his position in the flourishing Colony of Victoria, where, at the period of his arrival, it may be presumed, the Emu and the Marsupial animals were not more objects of curiosity, than Railways or Gas lights.

We need scarcely remark in the present day, that gas, a word according to Johnson "invented by chymists," is no longer an experiment, but, to borrow a popular phrase, has become "an accomplished fact." This is true not merely as regards the larger cities of the civilised world, but as applied to hamlets and villages in its remote corners. The ultra aristocrats in Grosvenor Square—before Belgravia was—shut their doors against it for many years, but at length, mitred prelates and coronetted nobles—the terrarum domini—were forced to bow down before the offspring of Englands "black diamond."

We presume Mr. Pickwood does not intend to advocate the measure as a profitable investment for superfluous sycee, as the amount required for its accomplishment would seem to be too insignificant to tempt capitalists, but judging from the published results in Australia, where freight is on a par with, and labor six or eight times as dear as in China, it could be recommended on such grounds alone.

We have in conclusion one word to say, in connexion with "progress and improvement," which must not be lost sight of. The necessity of a complete system of drainage is confessed by every one. We have every desire and indeed every reason to speak respectfully, and approvingly of the efforts of our Municipal Councils, but it is unreasonable to expect that the difficulties that will present themselves in operating on this (once) MUD FLAT by drains can be grappled with as successfully by non-professionals, as by a first class Civil Engineer. As the matter now stands, we believe that every coating of metal placed on the streets tends, in the same proportion as it improves th m, to injure the adjacent buildings by forcing the storm water around their foundations. In securing the services of a Civil Engineer, light and its antagonistic element water may both be controlled and directed by the same magic hand.

To the Editor of the NORTH-CHINA HERALD.

SIR,—I avail myself of the leisure that usually succeeds the departure of the European mails, to redeem a promise I made some time since of placing before the inhabitants of this Settlement, plans and estimates of gas works here. And I shall best effect this object by requesting you to publish the accompanying letter from Mr. Alex. Kennedy Smith, of Melbourne.

I have no personal acquaintance with this gentleman whatever, and as the name of "Smith," in English nomenclature, is not actually a singularity, I did not at first recognise it as belonging to the well known Civil Engineer, who has been so successful in Australia.

I have no desire to make this a Municipal matter, nor to give the Council any other control over it than their interest in it, on behalf of the public, would seem to justify. I leave the whole subject with the Community, to deal with as they may deem best, merely observing that the presence of a first class Civil Engineer amongst us, would tend materially to solve the problem of draining this Settlement.

It has been suggested to raise a Company to be called "THE SHANGHAI GAS COMPANY," with with a Capital of say £ to carry out this project, on the same principles and under the same management that has proved successful elsewhere.

I may mention that there were others in the field in the prosecution of this object before I arrived here, and my thanks are especially due to the Rev. Mr. Hobson, for having placed in my possession, some months ago, a plan of gas works accompanied with estimates, tracings, &c., from England.

The Council, too, have obtained from the same quarter, estimates of cast iron lamp posts, and railings with tracing of the same, adapted for oil or gas, which, together with the documents already referred to, have been laid on the table of the Reading room for the consideration of the public into whose hands I commit this most important trust, in the hope that it may find favor in their eyes.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

EDWIN PICKWOAD.

Shanghai, 26th December, 1860.

MELBOURNE, October 25th, 1860.

EDWIN PICKWOAD, Esq.,

Secretary to the Municipal Council of the British Settlement in Shanghai, China.

SIR,—Our mutual acquaintance Charles Williamson, Esq., of St. Kilda has communicated to me your request as contained in a letter to him received by last mail, soliciting information regarding the Melbourne Gas Company, its cost, management, and capabilities, &c., with the view of enabling you to originate and carry into active operation works of a similar character at "Shanghai."

In communicating with you I have also been desired by Mr. Williamson to state to you who I am, my experience, &c. in order that you may place reliance on such statement as I may make. I prefer this being done by others, and in addition to a copy of some of my testimonials which I now enclose, I beg to state that I am a civil and practical Engineer by profession, that I have extensive experience in the projecting, erecting, and management of Gas works.

In September 1853, (out of a numerous list of candidates) I was appointed in Britain to come out to Australia to erect and manage the Gas-works at Melbourne, at a salary of £800 per annum with free residence, coals, light, water, &c., this amount was subsequently increased to an equivalent of £1,500 per annum. I arrived in Melbourne in April 1854, and continued with the Company until the first of August 1859, during which period I erected the Gas-works, and lighted the city of Melbourne together with the adjacent municipalities of Fitzroy, East Collingwood, Richmond, Prahran, St. Kilda, Emerald Hill, Sandridge, North Melbourne, and Charlton. Independent of these extensive works, I have erected the following since my arrival in the Colony.

I projected, formed and carried into successful operation,—The Melbourne and Suburban Railway Company.

I supplied designs, working drawings, and superintended the erection of Gas-works at Ballaarat, Castlemaine, and Bendigo, the three principal goldfields, and the largest towns in the interior of Victoria.

Independent of my profession as a civil, consulting, and practical engineer, I at present fill the onerous position of consulting Engineer to four Gas Companies, Engineer and Manager of the "Lerderderg Gold-mining and Crushing Company," and Consulting Engineer to the "Glasgow United Gold Mining Company, and Judge of machinery to the R. A. Society of Victoria.

Having now stated what and who I am, I shall proceed to detail as concisely as possible, the method which I would recommend you to adopt in forming a Company for the erection of Gas-works at Shanghai.

1st. In order to ascertain the extent the works will be required to be, you should make or cause to be made a canvass of such portion of the city as you consider advisable to supply with that great desideratum a cheap, efficient and constant light. After having obtained the number of intended consumers, which would materially guide you, or such Engineer as you may consult, in determining the extent of the works required:—

2nd. You will have to make or procure from your Municipal Surveyor, a plan of such portion of the city as you desire to light, somewhat similar to the tracing I enclose, and after having selected a site for the works, say immediately upon the Bank of the Woosung, sufficiently high to be out of the reach of high tides or floods, and sufficiently near if possible to allow coals to be delivered from vessels or lighters, or if the event of any canal or navigable creek being in a more central position advantage may be taken thereof. After making upon the plan "made to scale," what you consider to be the most eligible site, you will then be able to form a correct idea of the lengths of mains required to run through the various streets to supply such portion of the city or British settlement as you consider advisable to light.

3rd. All streets require to have their width market with ink in feet (independent of the plan being drawn to scale) and as a general rule, when the width of the streets exceeds one chain, or 66 feet in breadth, it is advisable to have two lines of main pipes in order to save the great expense of long service or branch pipes to the consumers houses. In canvassing the consumers, it would be well to classify them according to their respective occupations, and to ascertain the number of burners that each would require.

4th. It will be essentially necessary to give correct information as to the price of skilled and unskilled labour, such as masons, bricklayers, blacksmiths, pick and shovel men, &c., also as to the price of stone, brick, lime, sand, firebrick, fireclay, coals, &c., &c., also the cost of freight from Sydney and Melbourne respectively. If this information is supplied to me by the next mail, I would immediately supply you with an approximate estimate for constructing such works as you may require. If you intend to light the streets only with say 500 lamps, and supply say 1,500 or 2,000 private lights, I could at once supply you with the whole works requisite, together with the mains, lamp-posts, service pipes, stop-cocks, meters, gas fittings, and everything complete. The cost of the street mains would depend on their size and quantity.

In the event of such works being large enough for a beginning (they can be easily added to) I would agree to fit the same up in Shanghai within a period of 4 months, after their arrival there. And in the event of your being in a position to accept such an offer; by remitting through the Oriental Bank Corporation, which has a branch in Hongkong, say £5,000 on account, I would immediately despatch works capable of supplying at least 3,000 lights.

Since I commenced this letter Mr. Williamson has just called and informed me that the whole of your queries relate to the lighting of the streets at present and I therefore consider it expedient on account of my having works suitable, to enter more fully into details. The cost of lamp-posts of cast-iron, according to enclosed sketch, would be somewhere about £10 each including lamp, stop-cock, and burner and their number, would determine their total cost.

If the Municipal Council are not in funds, to erect cast iron lamp-posts, a substitute of wood might be used at one third of the cost, until such time as you might be in funds, or have them imported from Britain at a less cost than they would be if manufactured here. In order then that you may have an idea of the approximate cost, we will say for lighting 500 lamps, I may state that the cost of the necessary plant here would not exceed £ and would consist of "Cast Iron Retorts" 7 ft. long × 14" with mouth pieces, "Lids cross bars, &c." in number sufficient to be capable of supplying 500 lights as a minimum; together with all the necessary iron works, such as, "Fire-doors and frames, fire-bars, dead plates, dampers, and frames, ash-troughs, side boxes, and plugs, back stays, wall plates, and tension rods, Hydraulic main complete with the necessary branches, ascension pipes, cross pipes, plugs, and stands, connection between the Hydraulic main and the scrubber, syphon box for tar, wrought iron scrubber 5 ft in diameter, 10 ft. high with cast metal top and bottom, perforated shells, dours for filling and emptying, and fitted with water distributor complete, &c.

(For a full description of these works we refer our readers here to Mr. Smith's letter in manuscript.) ED.

The total cost of these works as described would be £1,586.0.0 including say 300 lamps packed in pieces with glass cut to match, 3,000 feet of iron service pipe for do., 300 stop-cocks and heads, all free on board.

I have another complete set of Gas Plant three times the capacity, which would not only light up the street lamps (in No say from 100 to 1000) but would supply 2,000 lights in Public and Private houses &c., the total cost of which would be £4,360, delivered free on board including the same number of lamps and lamp cocks as also the same quantity of service pipe as stated above.

The largest size I would without hesitation recommend to you, as it would enable you to light up shops and Hotels and these at such a profit that the Municipal Council might have the streets lighted free of expense to the (British renters) Rate payers, that is, in the event of the Municipal Council erecting the works at the expense of said Rate-payers.

I may here incidentally remark that street mains (that is the large pipes for running along the streets) I can supply cheap here in Melbourne and that the cost of assorted size might be averaged at £480 per mile free on board in Hobsons Bay.

I have made the enclosed tracing of a Lamp-post and Lamp, the same as I have supplied to Bendigo and Castlemain.

In the event of your being able to make an arrangement for the establishment of the works in Shanghai, I would undertake to perform the whole of the work for you in a short period, either by coming to Shanghai myself or by sending a properly qualified Engineer from my own office, and should you determine to have any of the work I have on hand, I would at once despatch the same, together with all tools and materials necessary to erect the said works including skilled labor, coals, &c., &c.

I am not able to estimate correctly what the cost of manufacturing Gas would be in "Shanghai," but I should say certainly not more than in Melbourne. However I will be able to do so when I receive your replies to my queries on the 4th page.

I may mention that I am now erecting a manufactory for the purpose of making Gas and Water-pipes from Paper and Bitumen that in point of efficiency and cheapness are likely to supersede cast iron. It is a French invention and from experiments made here by me, a sample only ¼ of the weight of cast-iron, sustained a pressure three times as great as ordinary cast-iron pipes without fracture of any kind.

The Lighting rates vary from 3d. to 1s. in the pound, watching is generally included in the latter sum.

One of the Gas-works (the largest one) that I have offered you, was manufactured for Williamstown where large Government work-shops are being erected, and which is now the port for all the Government Railways, but as these shops are not yet finished, and as it will be at least 15 months before the Railways are finished, I can let you have the said works at once if necessary. I could also cast all the Lamp posts you might order, and have them delivered at Shanghai before the works were ready, at the same time bear in mind my remarks regarding wood-posts.

As in all probability you will receive this letter early in December, I may expect an answer in February, to which I shall lose no time in replying, and if you send an order it shall have my immediate and careful consideration, and I shall hold myself in readiness to despatch the plant accompanied by an Engineer.

I would take it as a favor if you would send me a newspaper occasionally. Japanese news would be very acceptable, and I would have much pleasure in exchanging favors.—I am, Sir, yours respectfully.
